RAG CARPETS AND QUILTS.

Four dollars and four years of spare time was the cost of a beautiful pink and white rag carpet finished this spring. Others at less expense were made and the many attractive rag carpets being made is interesting. The weavers tell us that up until the last two years, could they get but little weaving, but now rag carpets are very popular. Everybody wants white chain, instead of colored chain. Carpets are often made in one shade, all blue or all tan, sometimes in two shades and they are charming floor coverings for bed rooms. Women who are not gifted in dressmaking, find profit in cutting and tacking carpet rags. Of course, a woman who is a successful seamstress could not afford to spend her time working with carpet rags.

One industrious woman, who has been a home maker for many years, and whose children are now in their own homes, made four quilts last winter. They are beauties and cost $16. The revival of making rag carpets and quilting will give employment to those whose time and talents are not in constant demand by their household. Finger work settles one's nerves and brings contentment that cannot be found in idle moments. Women should not engage in any work to kill time. Every moment should be spent profitably, either in work or needed recreation. For those who do much sewing and cooking, reading is restful. And to others rag carpets and making quilts are suggested as fascinating and delightful resting time work.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING?

People who are engaged in boosting their home town or the community in which they live are the happiest people in the world today. Those who are making special efforts to set before outsiders and those at home the advantages of living in and dealing with their towns, are certainly not standing idly on the corners or sleeping on the counters in their stores. Work hard and strenuous for your town. If you live on a farm, work for your community. If there is a special improvement campaign going on, join that, you will feel better for the co-operation. If not, keep on at the tasks closest to you. It lies within the power of every man, woman and child to do something worthwhile for their community. A child may pick up paper off the streets, a small boy may cut the weeds down, men and women can accomplish wonders in the way of civic betterment and civic beauty. There are so many ways—in which you can help the place you call home. What are you doing?

WOMEN VOTE SATURDAY.

Saturday is the election of School trustees. An interesting part of this election is that the women have a right to vote. With the right, intelligence must follow. The voters should choose with forethought the man who will take the greatest interest in the work. See where the election will be held in your town, do not wait for some one to remind you, but remind some one else to go. The women must not leave it to the men and the men must not leave it to the women to do all the voting at these important elections.

At the Kentucky Educational Meeting in Louisville last week Hardin county got the prize for the largest attendance of trustees.

CANDIDATES FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

We announce this week as candidates for Representative in the next Kentucky Legislature, H. A. Cannon, of Madrid, and Squire G. A. Wright, of McQuady, subject to the will of the Republican party in the next August Primary. These gentlemen are both worthy men, good substantial citizens, successful farmers and high class men in every way. They want to go to the Legislature to serve their fellow men, in an honest, upright way and if elected will do it to the best of their ability. It is a credit to the county to have men like these offer for office. The Republicans will not make a mistake in nominating either one of these gentlemen.

Every business should have a head, one man to whom the public may look to as manager and the only business that prospers is the company that has a competent man to fill this office. The public is always served best by direct contact with the head man. Much time can be saved by the company and the customers in seeking the information desired from the manager of any concern. Naturally every man has his favorite member in every business, but for the quickest and safest results, the man who is responsible for the transactions in the long run, should be first consulted. There is a company whose head man answers every telephone call because he can furnish the exact information wanted immediately. No company is so unsatisfactory to the public as one without a special head man and nothing so annoying to a business as the people who fail to consult the general manager first.

Fifty men or more have been summoned to serve on the grand and petit juries of the May term of the Breckenridge circuit court. The job of the jury is indeed a most responsible one and men who serve on juries should have an understanding of the law—especially the law of right and wrong which is always easy to learn, and very often, hard to obey. Very few men are willing to serve on the jury and it is sometimes a hard task to get capable men for the service. May those who will be placed on the juries in the coming court make wise and safe decisions.

Louisville Man Ends His Life.

The mystery of the disappearance of Robt. I. Crawford, the young Louisville business man, who dropped out of sight last Monday, was cleared Saturday when his body was found on an island in Wolf river, a short distance below Memphis.

There was a bullet hole through his head and beside the body was found a revolver with one chamber empty. A negro fisherman discovered the remains in a clump of trampled down weeds.

At two o'clock G. C. Crawford was located in Memphis and identified the body.

Good View Dispelled Love.

A short time ago a servant in Yorkshire gave notice to leave her situation, informing her mistress that she was about to be married.

As the time drew near for leaving she addressed her mistress thus:

"Please, mum, have you got a girl yet?"

"No, Bridget. Why do you ask?"

"Because, if you haven't, I should like to stay."

"Why, I thought you were going to marry the sweep!"

"Oh, yes, mum," replied Bridget, hesitatingly, "but when I saw him after 'is face was washed I felt I could not love him."—London Tit-Bits.

Splendid Gift to Museum.

Ten scrapbooks compiled by Edward Fitzgerald, the poet of "Omar Khayyam," have been bequeathed to the Ipswich museum by his niece, Miss Eleanor Kerrick, to be added to the relics in the Fitzgerald room in Christ Church mansion. The scrapbooks consist of portraits of all manner of notabilities, kings and pugilists, bishops and murderers being pasted side by side. They contain many original pen-and-ink sketches by Charles Keene of Punch, also drawings by John Constable. Some of the drawings are enriched with comments by the poet.

HOUSE CLEANING.

Sing a song of cleaning house!
Pocket full of nails,
Four and twenty dust pans,
Scrubbing brooms and pails!
When the door is open,
Wife begins to sing—

"Just help me move this bureau here,
And hang this picture, won't you, dear?
And tack that carpet by the door,
And stretch this one a little more,
And drive this nail and screw this screw,
And here's a job I have for you—
This closet door will never catch,
I think you'll have to fix the latch;
And, oh, while you are about it, John,
I wish you'd put the cornice on,
And hang this curtain when you're done
I'll hand you up the other one;
This box has got to have a hinge
Before I can put on the fringe;
And won't you mend this broken chair
I'd like a hook put right on there,
The bureau drawer must have a knob;
And here's another little job—
I really hate to ask you dear—
But could you fix a bracket here?"
And on it goes when these are thru
With this and that and those to do,
Ad infinitum, and more too,
All in a merry jingle—
And isn't it enough to make
A man wish he was single? Almost.
—The Pineville Sun.

ALWAYS BEAR TO THE EAST

Objects Dropped into "Bottomless Pits" Are Inevitably Attracted in That Direction.

Because the earth whirls so fast, rocks dropped into the very deep shafts of Michigan copper mines disappear on the way down. At some of the shafts, which are nearly a mile deep in a straight drop, it is the general belief that a load of broken stone can be dumped into the hole at the top without causing any injury to a man at the bottom.

On account of the motion of the earth a rock will not fall perfectly straight, but will bear to the east, lodging in the timber lining or perhaps bounding from wall to wall until it is broken up or caught by some projection.

A group of experimenters from the Michigan College of Mines verified this by careful tests with steel balls. One ball was hung by a thread over the hole, about four feet from the east side, and the thread burned. A clay box had been placed at the bottom of the shaft to catch the ball, but it never appeared. Another ball was then dropped, by the same method, a little farther away from the east edge, and this ball, also, did not get to the bottom. Careful search located the first ball imbedded in the timbers 800 feet down, but the second ball never has been found.

As the earth revolves the surface is moving eastward at a rate which varies with the latitude. Down in the earth the rate is not so fast, on the same principle that a point on the tire of a wheel revolves faster than one on a spoke. Consequently, at the distance of a mile below the surface the speed rate is less than at the surface. The falling ball, however, continues to move toward the east at the same velocity it had on the earth's surface.—Saturday Evening Post.

MEANS OF WASHING THE EYE

Winking is a Process Which Dame Nature Has Instituted for Optic's Preservation.

The unconscious act of winking bears a quite important relation to the welfare of the eye. This being the most delicate and sensitive organ of the body exposed to the air, it is in constant need of the protection given by the eyelids, which not only close quickly at the approach of danger, but are employed in washing the surface of the eye. Moistening is required to offset the drying effect of the air, and cleaning to prevent the injurious effect of dirt.

Every time you wink the eye is washed. Inside the eye is the little tear gland, which, as its name implies, is busy storing up the supply of tears. This gland keeps the inside of the lid moist, and you wink automatically whenever the surface of the eye becomes dry or a particle of dust or anything else strikes it. This work is done as often as necessary, and to realize how often it is necessary try how long you can keep your eyes open without winking.

When honesty is merely a good policy it is a poor virtue.

Lazy farmers are just as useless as dead ones and take up more room.
